ATLANTA, GA., April 17, 1894.

Leaping Forward!

The stockholders of the Cotton States and International Exposition met yesterday morning, and effected a permanent organization. They elected a board of directors, and the board met in the afternoon.

The proceedings of both meetings will be found on another page. The most gratifying enthusiasm was manifested, and the exposition was placed under the management of leading citizens whose ability, public spirit and liberal ideas make its success assured.

Our great exposition is now on its feet. It began its legal existence yesterday. From now on its career will be one of active work, and as soon as the architects draw their plans and the directors accept them, the exposition buildings and grounds will be the busiest place in the country.

Our workmen will obtain employment, and their weekly wages will swell our local circulation. The progress of the work will be heralded all over the world, and the eyes of capitalists and men of enterprise will be turned in this direction.

So far, everything has moved along smoothly, and Atlanta has made a magnificent showing in her minimum fund of nearly $200,000, which will probably be increased to $300,000 in a very short time by subscriptions from the railroads and other big corporations and business institutions.

Congress and the outside world will join us in our great industrial and commercial union, and the countries south of us will be with us and do their level best.

Yesterday witnessed a long leap forward!

An American Enterprise.

It is understood that Senator Morgan's forthcoming report in favor of the Nicaragua canal has the sanction of the president, and will find favor with both houses of congress.

The bill will authorize the government to supervise and control the canal, as the work is on too large a scale for a private enterprise. The New Orleans Planity says:

According to the estimates submitted to Senator Morgan it will not take more than $20,000,000 to complete the canal. This would necessitate the expenditure of $10,000,000 a year for seven years, the time it is estimated that the work would be in progress. The bill to be introduced will provide for the issuance of bonds to cover the amount needed to complete the canal, the control of the work being transferred to the government, as well as the management of the affairs of the canal after completion.

There can be no question but that the proposition to complete the canal with money furnished by the government has taken a strong hold upon the public mind. The platforms of both the great political parties have advocated the building of the canal by the country, and nearly every prominent commercial gathering which has been held for several years past has passed resolutions calling upon congress to take up the work of completing the canal.

The canal must be built with our capital and controlled by our government, or Europe will step in and take charge of the whole business. We cannot afford to have this great waterway controlled by a foreign power. It must be ours, and we must put up the money and push it through.

More Bonds.
 In spite of the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law, and in spite of the veto of the seigniorage bill—events that mediate prosperity to our precious gold is again going abroad. Four millions were shipped abroad last Saturday, and there seems to be an idea in Wall street that there will be other shipments this week and for some time to come. It is referred to philosophically as "the usual spring export movement of gold," but if the seigniorage bill had been approved, a great bowl would go up from the organs of the money power that the outward movement of gold was the result of that measure, and that the country would be ruined.

The impression that the eastern press leaves on its readers is that when gold goes out, those who send it out get nothing for it. We are led to infer that the Bress Lazzard, Hogenbak, Ikyhammer & Co. take their own money, buy the gold here, and then send it abroad and give it away—the result being that this country is just that much out of pocket for every dollar that goes abroad. Some very well-known business men entertain this view, and protest against all such transactions with very vehemence.

As a matter of fact, however, the holders of gold in this country profit by every shipment of the precious metal that is made. The only sufferer is the United States treasury, which, under Mr. Carlisle's policy, pays out its reserve fund to redeem silver notes. The Lazzard Bros (for instance) find that they can sell gold in Europe for a premium. They take the silver notes issued in 1890 to the treasury, draw the gold out, and sell it in Europe for a profit.

We pointed out the other day that the course of the continental exchanges pointed to a draft of gold on London, but London has taken advantage of the situation here and draws the gold from the United States treasury. It is true that the New York banks furnished a part of the four millions shipped last Saturday, but they know that they can replenish their stock from the treasury at any time.

The fact that gold exports would be renewed has been known in banking circles for weeks, and it has been known in the inner rooms of the subtreasury at New York. It has been known, also, to those who are aware that Austria has completed her arrangements to float a gold loan of $18,000,000, which finishes up her scheme of "currency reform."

When Secretary Carlisle made a visit to New York, week before last, he knew that a draft would shortly be made on the reserve fund in the treasury, and we are not surprised to see a statement made in The New York Evening Post—an organ of the gold interest—that he took occasion to sound certain prominent bankers in regard to another bond issue.

The confidential agent of a prominent Wall street bank says that the secretary approached several prominent financiers—if bankers can be called financiers in the strict sense of the term—and discussed a proposition for a new bond issue. The agent says that the bankers told Secretary Carlisle they would be willing to take another issue of $50,000,000 at the same figure they paid for the last, but they would go no higher. The secretary expressed himself satisfied, and we have no doubt he renewed his assurances that no more silver would be coined—not even the seigniorage.

It is not surprising that Secretary Carlisle employed, according to the confidential agent aforesaid, who breathed his information into the ears of a reporter of The Evening Post, very interesting. The secretary pointed out that for the nine months ending March 31st, last, the expenditures had exceeded the receipts by fifty-five millions. For the month of March, expenditures exceeded receipts by seven millions.

There will be some heavy expenditures before July 1st, and in July there will be, in addition to current payments, an expenditure of about seven millions for interest on bonds. So there you are! The people's treasury at the mercy of the organized money power, and Wall street pulling the secretary's leg for another bond issue! More debts and more interest for the people to pay, and heavy additions to the burdens of taxation!

What more can the people want? They asked for reform and relief, and they get the quintessence of republican injustice and oppression. But every voter in the country should bear in mind that the democratic party is not responsible for this condition of affairs. At the proper time those who are democrats may be dependent on it to wash their hands of the foul business which has resulted in wrecking the financial policy of the democrats.

A Big Florida Industry.
 In the Titusville, Fla., Star, Mr. H. W. Richards has an interesting letter about pineapple industry.

Mr. Richards claims that the pineapple lands around Eden, Fla., ought to be worth $1,000 per acre because a man purchasing land at that price would be able to make 40 per cent on his investment at the end of several years. The crop is easily cultivated and the purchasers will gather it without putting the owner to any trouble or expense.

Men of experience agree with Mr. Richards about the profits of pineapples, but they say that his valuation of land is altogether too high. Good land can be purchased in Florida at from $100 to $200 per acre, and at this rate the pineapple grower can make a profit of from 300 to 400 per cent on his investment.

The matter is worth investigating. Oranges have been worth millions to our Florida friends, and it may be that they will find as big a bonanza in the pineapple.

What Banker Clews Thinks.

Mr. Henry Clews, the New York banker, is satisfied that we have reached the bottom, and that the country is moving upward.

He says that our people have reached the point where they refuse to be scared any longer, and that recuperation is under way everywhere. The shock from the fall in silver and wheat is over. The debtors have suffered the worst that has come to go in debt again; and we may expect to see good marketable properties soon become scarce. Mr. Clews says:

Those who hesitate to launch out into business undertakings now will be run over by competitors. It is a survival of the fittest in the coming contest. It is not going to be in the future scarce money, but it is going to be scarce securities and commodities. In other words, not enough to go around to meet the coming demand. Wall street offices are bare of stocks; merchants' shelves are bare of goods; manufacturers are bare of raw material. The next panic in this country will not be on the selling side, but on the buying side, to pick up everything that is cheap. Stocks will improve in price but decrease in value, because there is more money in Wall street than stocks.

The banker predicts that silver and grain will continue to rise for some time to come. We must take his predictions, however, with many grains of allowance. He is a gold standard man, and views the conditions of the past two years with the greatest possible satisfaction. It may be that he is talking to his eastern friends. Time will be required to test his views, so far as the south and west are concerned.

In this immediate region, the hard times are practically over, but we owe no thanks to those who are of Mr. Clews's line of thinking. Our people, by the hardest work and the hardest economy ever known in their experience, have held their own, and are now on rising ground. They have not changed their ideas of what our policy should be, and they will continue to fight for bimetalism, a low tariff, state banks and an income tax.

Mr. Clews will see his dream of general prosperity realized when the pledges of the democratic platform are redeemed.

The Death of Senator Vance.

Following so closely the death of Senator Colquitt, it is natural that the loss of Senator Vance should cause the southern people to look forward with apprehension to a time in the near future when the last of their great soldier statesmen will depart from the arena of their usefulness and leave their places to be filled by new men.

Fortunately, Senator Colquitt has been succeeded by one who is worthy to take up his work, and it is to be hoped that the man who takes Senator Vance's seat will be equally well equipped.

But it causes a feeling of sadness to see the eminent men who have been so valiant in war and so wise in peace passing from the stage of action. These great confederate leaders have been among the most patriotic and loyal supporters of the union. They have represented the south as faithfully and ably as they ever represented the old south. Their conservative and Roman integrity has disarmed opposition, and they are as popular with their old enemies as they are with the people who have followed them for more than a generation.

The south will never lack statesmen and orators, but it grieves her people to part with the leaders who have served them so devotedly in the stormiest and most disastrous periods of our history, as well as in the season of our prosperity.

Colquitt and Vance were among nature's noblemen. They lived for the people, and all that concerned the people interested them, and enlisted their sympathies and their energies. They belonged to the school of statesmen that flourished in the better days of the republic, and few of our great senators have left behind them names so splendid and so stainless.

But, while we mourn these two patriots, we should think of those who still remain with us. While we render our tribute of tears to the dead, let us not withhold the laurels so worthily won by the living!

The Currency Question.

The Memphis Appeal-Avalanche, which appears to have been unduly influenced by the somewhat complicated character of the currency discussion, declares with considerable warmth that "the double standard is rank nonsense," and, having settled that matter, announces that its editor is "a single standard" man. "The Appeal-Avalanche," it says, "wants either the gold standard or the greenback."

The wide margin which the editor allows himself here may be covered by the humor of the declaration, which is broadly American, and therefore plain to the understanding. But our friend is so afraid of the "flat of 40 cents in the silver dollar," that he wants it all flat—or what unscientific reasoners call fiat.

This leads us to suggest that our contemporary turn his attention to the "flat" that must necessarily exist in all money. By reflection, we can get somewhere in the neighborhood of it. Suppose that gold bullion should be demonetized tomorrow. Suppose the demand for it as a money metal should cease all together. What would then be its so-called "intrinsic" value?

The world would have on hand more than sixty years' supply to be used in the arts and sciences. Would the value of this commodity, with a supply out of all proportion to the demand, bear any relation to its value as a money metal? There is no such thing as "intrinsic" value in the articles to which the term is commonly applied. Gold is valuable almost solely on account of its exchangeable value, and its exchangeable value is based wholly on its money function. Take that away, and its value rests solely on the demand for it in the arts and sciences. This is the ABC of the money question. "Fiat" money exists only in the minds of those who pray to the golden calf and imagine that it is gold.

The value of money, whether gold, silver or paper, rests wholly on the demand for a convenient and safe medium of exchange, and all that prevents every man, woman and child from perceiving and understanding this simple fact is the idea that they have imbibed and inherited that gold and silver have "intrinsic" value.

In 1849, when the gold discoveries in California were made, the additions to the volume of money from that source caused a welcome rise in prices and a happy expansion of business and industrial enterprises. This was due to the fact that gold fell in value, the fall being due to the California discoveries. There was talk in 1850 of demonetizing gold, the idea being that the constant additions to the world's stock would reduce its value below a stable level. The bankers and money lenders—including Chevalier, the great French banker—were in favor of the single silver standard. Fortunately, these selfish counsels did not prevail, and the world was permitted to take advantage of the providential discoveries in California.

Even now, the organs of the single gold standard are holding out hopes of relief to the people by means of gold discoveries in Africa and Australia. They say the production of gold in those countries is increasing, and that pretty soon the demand of the world for an enlarged currency basis will be supplied. Now, this is the whole case of bimetalism. We say that silver has already been discovered, and that the people who are now suffering from a contracted currency basis, ought to be permitted to take advantage of it. We say, moreover, that any combination or party that seeks to prevent the people from obtaining relief in this way, is committing not only a political crime, but is guilty of a crime against society. How serious this crime may be estimated from the fact that in the city of New York alone, those who are able have been compelled to tax themselves $15,000,000 during the past twelve months to prevent the idle workers in that city from absolute starvation.

The difficulty with a paper currency is not "irredeemability," or the "flat" element, but the fact that it is an avarice—qualities that go hand in hand—will insist on issuing more than the people really need; the danger of making the supply greater than the demand. If there could be some gauge or measure whereby a paper issue could be kept level with the expanding demands of business and population, a paper currency would be as valuable as, and far more effective than, gold. There never was a premium on the greenbacks during the war, until Wall street compelled the government to pass a law refusing these notes in payment of customs duties.

This is a doctrine for gold where none had existed before. At once there was a small premium on gold, the gold board was organized in Wall street, and the avarice of the gold ring had full swing.

The Lesson of a Beautiful City.

According to the assessment lists of the District of Columbia real estate listed at $11,500,000 is owned by 150 persons who are winter residents. The value of the real property is said to be about $30,000,000.

Washington has been made a beautiful city, and rich men all over the country are seeking homes there during at least half of the year. The city is kept cleaner than any other town of its population in America. Its wide, well-paved streets and boulevards, numerous parks, beautiful statuary, public structures and other attractions gratify the eye and appeal to an aesthetic taste.

The city has a population of perhaps 300,000. It has few industries, and its trade merely supplies the local demand. But it is a desirable place of residence and the millionaires flock there. These rich residents spend millions every year; their money goes into every channel and benefits every class.

There is a lesson to be learned from Washington. A city like Atlanta, with the start it already has, could very easily add to its attractions and supplement its advantages in a way that would draw wealthy men from all parts of the union, and induce them to invest here, and reside among us at least several months of every year.

Atlanta is neither too far north nor too far south for an ideal place of residence. It has an unsurpassed climate, and a pure water supply. Our death rate is phenomenally low, and epidemic diseases are unknown. Thousands of well-to-do citizens have come here from other states to enjoy our natural and artificial advantages, and there is no reason why we should not continue to improve and beautify the city until it will attract wealthy settlers from the far north and the far west.

Washington teaches a lesson that can be profitably utilized by Atlanta.

Editor Godkin thought the other day that the veto of the seigniorage bill would dispose of the silver question. If Editor Godkin escapes paralysis for a few months he will see his mistake.

The New York Journal of Commerce calls the Wall street element "the people."

There is about to be a quorum of democrats in the house, and the seventy evidently ran in out of the weather.

Senator Vance's successor will be a free coinage platform democrat.

The cuckoos are beginning to lift up their little voices against Senator Morgan.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

A Washington correspondent says: "The idea that Congressman Reed by reason of his greatness is quite inaccessible to ordinary people is a mistake, as two little boys, whose homes are on Capitol Hill, can testify. One of the boys is a bright little fellow, who was selected by his teacher to make part in a debate at school on a certain Friday afternoon. The subject was debate was some political question, and the child, without confiding his plan to any friend, had a splendid victory. He was asked to come again next week, and the boys explained that they had come for his views on this certain weighty question. Reed, in fact, told them that this was his busy day, and that much as he would be delighted to talk to them they should wait until a committee room, sat down with them, and made them a little speech. While he was talking, some newspaper correspondent happened to be in the room. 'Don't you see I'm busy. I'll talk to you later.' He answered all the questions the boys asked him, drew them out on their own, and then, after a short pause, he said, 'I am glad to come again, and whenever he could help them he would be glad to do so. It is needless to add that Mr. Reed now has a large number of callers in the country than these two boys.'

A St. Louis politician says: "One of the most remarkable things about the civil war in this country is the ease with which everybody, except the professional politicians, has forgotten the animosities of the struggle. Men in the streets, on 'change' in the hotels, meet and shake hands, and call each other major and colonel, and nobody knows or cares a straw on which side they were the shoulder straps. The bitterness, save for political ends, has passed away, and most of the boys who took part in the bloody struggle are now general and two ex-confederate colonels, and nobody thought enough of the matter even to mention it as curious."

Here is an opinion from a northern physician: "The very low death rate during the winter of 1893-4, and the fact that the popular illusion that a mild winter is unhealthy. The old saying that a 'green Christmas' makes a fat chrychard has no foundation in fact, the records of all large cities showing that the death rate is generally higher during intensely cold winters because so many chest diseases take a fatal turn under these conditions. It is exactly the same in regard to the summer. It has been held that although an intensely hot summer increases the mortality of young children, it is not on the whole unhealthy for grown people. No greater mistake than this could be made. Extremes of temperature in either direction are a natural menace to health, while the more uniform the temperature during the year the smaller the mortality."

JUST FROM GEORGIA.

To Little Margaret Northern.

For Margaret
 This violet
 With dewdrops of Life's April wet;
 For all the girls
 With golden curls,
 And all the skies with Jewels set,
 Are less to me—far less to me
 Than is the sweet crest to me
 Of Margaret, sweet Margaret!

For Margaret
 This magnolia
 That creeps and climbs a kiss to get
 But all the flowers
 Of April showers,
 And all the lilies leaning yet—
 The winds that wait the dove to me,
 Are less than is the love to me
 Of Margaret, sweet Margaret!

What Would You Do?

If the world were bright,
 With never a night—
 If the sun were always beaming
 From skies as blue
 As you ever knew,
 What would you do for dreaming?

If the world were glad,
 And none of us sad,
 With never a least howling;
 With life—alack!
 Like a railroad track,
 What would you do for growling?

Mr. Gus Vautrot is now associated with Mr. Cronin in the publication of The Cochran Telegram.

No Reason in It.
 There is no reason to complain
 If there's a blue sky after rain;
 If summer has one cooling breeze,
 And winter has one frosty freeze,
 But still the world enjoys a howl—
 It's such a luxury to growl!

Editor Lewis, of The Sparta Lhaemette, objects to the mention of anybody's name for any office until his position on the money question is settled.

End of the Beginning.
 Rides through the state,
 To every town and school;
 The officer looks on the North pole,
 And worn to rags,
 But faithful is his mule.

And for a vote
 He gives his note;
 The voters know the rule;
 The office lost,
 They count the cost,
 And levy on the mule!

The return of Current Literature to its old form has been received with approbation by the numerous readers of that excellent periodical. Current Literature is climbing high in the estimation of the literary world.

Editor Fairman's Story.
 The scenes of Henry Clay Fairman's romance, "The Sun-Sun-Sun of the Street," are laid in the polar regions and will be of peculiar interest to the public at this time, because five or six expeditions are striving to reach the North pole. Dr. Nansen, from northern Russia, Walter Wellman, from Spitzbergen, and others at different points around the frigid circle are toiling toward the northern axis.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Patriotic Letter.

Atlanta, Ga., April 16, 1894.—Editor Constitution: The political situation in this state renders it certain that the election of the democratic party in this state will encounter opposition of a very strong character. Views and purposes which have heretofore been looked to in the past, will make themselves felt in the next election. It is a fact that there never was a time when party unity and the subjection of personal ambition to the public good, were so much in evidence as they are now. Criticism of candidates, the injection of personal and other issues into the struggle for the nomination for state office will necessarily make the party at the polls. The contest for the nomination for governor has already excited feelings and animosities which will be projected into the campaign to elect a governor. He may be, he will be weakened by the present contest. If all the nominations cannot be made without a struggle, as many are, he will be weakened by the party.

I, for one, will not add anything to a harmful condition and I wish every friend of mine in this state to distinctly understand that I am not in favor of a candidate that under no circumstances would I permit the use of my name. I desire to emphasize this statement by adding my request to every friend of mine in Georgia to advocate the nomination of the present attorney general. I have neither time nor desire to be a candidate myself, but will have both to advocate in every way in which I can the preservation of the unity of the party and the success of its ticket.

I am seriously impressed with the idea that for a number of years the democratic party has been in more danger now than it has ever been since bayonet rule was removed, and considering its preservation absolutely necessary to the welfare of the state, anything which the south holds dear I shall do all I can to uphold it. Yours truly,
 W. C. GLENN.

Kansas City and the South.

From The Kansas City Times.
 The rapid development of recent years in the wonderful industrial growth of the south. This is especially true in the manufacture of cotton products and it is said that within the next year some of the most extensive of the New England factories will be removed to the section in which the cotton is grown. Until very recently the cotton producers were content with whatever market the New England and European manufacturers were willing to afford them. But the constant decrease in price has led to the belief that they have resulted in the erection of mills and will ultimately in making the cotton belt the theater of operation for cotton manufacturers.

The transplanting of this industry to the south will greatly increase the population and magnify the business of that section. It will create a market for machinery, for other industries will follow in the same trade and multiply the demand for all sorts of supplies. This demand will lead to the search for a market, which will at once have the advantage of being readily accessible and economical. The natural depot is this city. The railroad facilities which already exist, or are in process of construction, the continuity of territory and the community of thought and purpose of the people of this section make this proposition certain of fulfillment.

That these business opportunities may not be sacrificed, the people of this city ought to exert every effort to increase the trade and social relations with all the people south to the Gulf coast. Such manufactures as will supply the needs of a changed conditions and added population of that section, and particularly such as this section is especially adapted for, should be sacrificed.

RURAL LIFE IN GEORGIA.
 Washington Gazette: Mr. Billy Smith says he has a cow that is somewhat heretofore a good deal of a hump on the back of a staple every time she gets a chance at it.

Elberton Star: A certain widower in this town was surprised the other evening upon returning from his office to find two daily white visiting cards under his front door with the names of two popular young ladies on them. Mistakenly he supposed the cards were a little embarrassing.

Dalhousie Nugget: Dr. Gibbs Underwood, a leading alliance man of Franklin county, attempted to make a speech at Cleveland Tuesday during the dinner hour of court. In the midst of his eloquent discourse a patient medicine vender set up a stand on the public square with an Ethiopian troupe of banjo players and when the music commenced the crowd went pell-mell from the benches to conclude his speech.

constructed. There are many lines of manufacture in which Kansas City has obvious advantages over other communities, and its geographical conditions for the trade in question are superior to any others. The business men of this community should move in the matter at once.

ABOUT THE GOVERNORSHIP.

In an editorial on the recent Evans-Atkinson debates, The Augusta Evening News says:

"It is amusing to note how thoroughly discomfited the entire anti-evans party was by the general got up and poured hot shot into the very vulnerable hide of the festive Cowetan. A listener at one of the joint debates caught 'T's' by the hundred, which all escaped from the lips of Mr. Atkinson and the people who support him—if there are any who do—must not forget that had it not been for Mr. Atkinson the new world would not have been discovered, the world's fair would not have taken place, nor would Georgia have been the Empire State of the South. The march to the statehouse goes steadily on, and in a few months the gubernatorial chair will be occupied by Clement A. Evans, statesman, warrior and patriot."

The American Times-Recorder says editorially:

"The ring masters of Spalding and Lee knowing that the masses of their people are for Evans, are afraid of the moral effect of early action on doubts, and are carrying out their policy of holding county primaries for two months. This shows who is scared in this campaign and who is bluffing. Atkinson is not scared, but he is afraid to try the experiment in a single county for fear of showing his real weakness. General Bluff is about to be superseded by General Bluff in command of the Atkinson campaign."

A correspondent of The Eatonton Messenger writing from Jasper county, says: "I think Jasper can be put in the Evans column. Things are quiet up here, and the smoke of brag and bluster rises it can be seen that the people are for General Evans. This is as it should be, in my opinion, for without detracting from the glory in which Colonel Atkinson has seen fit to paint himself, the general is better equipped for a safe, sound, trusted and able governor."

The Elberton Star has the following: "The way in which Mr. Atkinson has been blowing about the value of his past services to the people and his qualifications to fill the office which he claims as a debt due him by Georgians, has been so much support many who were inclined to favorably consider his candidacy for the governorship. If Mr. Atkinson believes that he has done as much in the capacity of representative as he claims, it is not a questionable ambition that prompts him to leave this sphere of usefulness for the routine work of the executive office."

The Dalhousie Nugget says: "Georgia does not need a politician as her governor, but a statesman, one who towers above the scrambling place hunters. Such a man is General Evans, and the people have already decided that he is the best Georgia's next governor, and no amount of trading and juggling on the part of the politicians will change their verdict. The politicians may be well put in their pipes and smoke it."

The Columbus Sunday Herald has this: "In the outset, The Herald decided to support General Evans in preference to Colonel Atkinson. Every day finds us more firmly convinced that we made no mistake in reaching that conclusion."

GEORGIA POLITICAL NOTES.

Speaking of the political outlook in that section The Early County News says: "From what we have seen during these two weeks, we feel safe in predicting that while politics, state, congressional and county, are destined to undergo a greater upheaval this year than ever, there will be more sensible and liberal conservatism exercised than in any previous campaign."

The Adel News says of Ben Russell: "Hon. Ben E. Russell will be returned to congress by the people of this county, very likely, have opposition, but will be triumphantly elected over any man or men that may enter the race against him."

Under the rotation plan it is Randolph's time to furnish the next state senator, and The Liberal-Enterprise declares that the name of Colonel James B. Bussey, of Culbert, for that position.

The Walden Express says that Colonel A. H. Wooten's friends are trying to induce him to become a candidate for representative. He has gone so far as to agree that he is in the hands of his friends.

The Early County News says of Colonel Jesse W. Walters, of Albany: "He will be in the race for the congressional nomination. He, Congressman Russell, and Judge Bussey, without other rivals in the race, will make things pretty lively during the summer months."

The Macon County Citizen says: "Mr. Eliah B. Lewis has announced for congress to represent the counties of Wilkes, Burke and Johnston. He is a Macon, Sumter and a native of the democratic nomination. Personally Mr. Lewis is a very pleasant and agreeable gentleman, and he is very much at home in his own town, but all over the county."

THE EXPOSITION.

A Large Attendance of Stockholders at Yesterday's Meeting.

SHOWING THEIR INTEREST IN THE WORK

They Elected a Board of Directors and Took Other Action.

THEN THE BOARD MET LATER

And Took Up the Good Work That Has Been Entrusted to Its Care—The Next Meeting Will Be Held on Thursday.

The exposition company has organized and the work from now on will be pushed forward with even greater vigor than it has been in the past.

The stockholders met at the exposition rooms at 11 o'clock yesterday morning and chose the board of directors to whom is to be entrusted the important work of building this great enterprise.

Later in the day the directors held a short meeting and took the preliminary steps towards permanent organization and the election of permanent officers. It was evident in both meetings that there will be no delay now that the uncertainty has been removed. Everybody manifested the greatest interest in the work in hand and it was evident from the start that the old Atlanta spirit in this exposition movement as strongly as it was in anything which this city has undertaken.

The stockholders met. At the morning's meeting there first came a meeting of the incorporators, who formally accepted an amendment to the charter and then turned over the charter and subscription list to the stockholders.

Mr. Hemphill was called to the chair in the stockholders meeting and Mr. Cabanis acted as secretary.

A committee consisting of Messrs. E. P. Chamberlin, E. P. Black and P. E. Rice was appointed on proxies. It was found that $20 shares, considerably more than a majority, were represented in person and by proxy.

Chairman Hemphill then submitted the charter to the stockholders and it was passed upon the minutes of the meeting. Governor Bullock submitted the by-laws of the company, which with one or two slight changes, were adopted.

Mr. Jack Spaulding moved that a committee of seven be appointed to nominate a board of directors. This was adopted and the chairman appointed Mr. M. Imman, Dr. Spaulding, Captain English, Captain Wylie, Mr. Collier, Mr. Neal and Governor Bullock.

The Board Named. On motion of Mr. Rice these seven gentlemen were at once elected members of the board of directors.

The committee retired and upon its return reported the following board, which was unanimously elected:

R. D. Spaulding, H. T. Imman, E. P. Chamberlin, M. P. Amory, E. C. Peters, Charles E. Harman, B. F. Walker, P. E. Rice, Forrest Adair, J. H. Allen, G. P. Dodd, R. J. Lowry, J. A. Dodson, R. P. Hooley, Joseph Thompson, P. H. Harralson, W. A. Hemphill, W. D. Grant, R. B. Bullock, James R. Wylie, S. M. Imman, James W. English, W. Smith, Clark Howell, Jr., J. H. Vander, A. D. Adams, R. B. Nease, O. Dougherty, E. Rich, John A. Miller, H. M. Atkinson, Charles S. Northen, S. F. Woodson.

Under the by-laws as adopted, the governor of the state and the mayor of the city are honorary vice presidents and ex-officio members of the exposition board of directors.

To Add to the Fund. Mr. Jack Spaulding introduced a resolution, which was adopted by the stockholders, instructing the board of directors to go ahead with the work of collecting the subscriptions already received and of securing additions to their capital stock and their funds in any way they could do so.

Captain English made a strong speech on the line of the necessity of uniting and of constant work in this matter of adding to the exposition fund. He pointed out how necessary it is that every dollar which can be secured is secured and he expressed the belief that with the united efforts of the directors and the stockholders another $100,000 could easily be added to the exposition fund in a short time.

The captain's remarks were received with hearty applause and the stockholders, when they left, took with them a strong feeling of confidence in the importance of the work of the directors.

The Directors in Session. At the directors' meeting there was almost a full attendance, a few exceptions being made by the absence of the council. After Chairman Hemphill had called the meeting to order Dr. Spaulding moved the appointment of a committee to nominate permanent officers. This motion was carried and the committee as appointed consisted of Dr. Spaulding, Captain English, Mr. Chamberlin, Mr. Imman, Captain Wylie, Mr. Neal, Mr. Rice and Mr. Forrest Adair.

Captain English suggested that a committee be appointed to secure from the Piedmont exposition directors an option on the exposition grounds at the figures it was offered to the city, the same being secured to the city by a mortgage by which it can be secured to the city in case the city desires to purchase it after the exposition is held. This committee was appointed, to consist of Mr. Collier, Mr. Rice, Mr. Hemphill and Mr. Palmer—being the original committee which had the matter in charge some time ago.

On motion of Mr. Jack Spaulding a committee of three was appointed to devise a plan for securing a fund for the exposition, this committee to report at the meeting next Thursday. The chairman appointed Mr. Spaulding, Mr. Collier and Mr. Rice to that committee.

The secretary was instructed to send to each of the directors a formal notification of his election and to impress upon each the necessity of having at least one share of exposition stock in his name.

Carrying the Work Forward. The question of securing the endorsement of commercial bodies and of citizens generally from other parts of the country was discussed and a plan was determined upon by which the scope of the exposition is to be presented to all such bodies in proper way. It is expected that this will bring heavy endorsements, not only from the parts of the south, but from all parts of the country. And these endorsements will unquestionably be of great value in securing government recognition of the exposition and showing to the people of the entire country that it is not Atlanta alone which desires this exposition, but that it is really to be international in its scope.

A committee was appointed to look into the matter of railroad approaches to the grounds. This committee consists of Mr. Grant Williams, Captain Dodson, Mr. E. P. Black and Captain Wylie.

The Exposition Outlook. There was a general discussion of the exposition outlook and of the impression which the movement was making throughout the entire country. The reports from all sources were most favorable. In the course of the talk Mr. Clark Howell stated that he had received a letter from the American Tobacco Company, which is the greatest company of its kind in the country, owning factories in North Carolina and Virginia, in which the company states that it will make a most unique and the greatest tobacco exhibit which the world has ever seen. There were other reports of a similar exposition movement is widespread. The regular meeting of the board will be held on Thursday, at which time the committees appointed yesterday will make their reports.

A BUSY SCENE.

Was that at the Atlanta Trust and Banking Company's New Home. One of the busiest scenes in Atlanta yesterday was that in the new banking house of the Atlanta Trust and Banking Company, at the corner of Broad and Alabama streets. The big consolidation of interests by which the Atlanta Trust and Banking Company absorbs the deposit features of the Southern Banking and Trust Company virtually assuming the banking business which the latter has been doing, created quite a sensation in business circles, and it looked as if the business men were anxious to give demonstration of their appreciation of the big combination in the most practical way. President Hemphill, and Assistant Cashier, Mr. McCord and Assistant Cashier, Mr. McCord kept busy all day greeting their old customers and new ones who dropped into the bank to see the officers. All during the day the commodious bank was filled with people. It proved to be one of the most attractive places in the city and certainly was an auspicious omen for the new Atlanta Trust and Banking Company.

GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNAE.

There Was a Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon by the Association. There was a very large meeting of the members of the alumnae association yesterday afternoon and matters of great moment to the association were discussed and disposed of.

It has hitherto been the custom of the association to give a scholarship to one of the graduates of the high school every year. At the meeting yesterday afternoon it was decided to make the number of scholarships two, this giving one to a young lady member of the association and one to a graduate in the business department.

The annual meeting of the Girls' High School Alumnae Association, which will be held at the last of the month and it will be of great interest. If Mrs. Laura Haygood will be the speaker, she will be a most interesting speaker. The alumnae association in good standing; that is, the members who have paid up their dues for the year.

Next Friday there will be a meeting of the alumnae association at the Girls' High school, where the scholarships will be awarded. There are a large number of applications and the meeting will be for the purpose of selecting two ladies to bestow the two scholarships upon. All members in good standing are invited to attend.

SOON TO ENTER THE FIELD.

A New Insurance Company Has Been Organized for Business in This City. The Fidelity Life and Accident Insurance Company with offices in room 22 in the Inman building, will soon be ready for business. This company will be capitalized at $200,000 and a majority of the stock will be owned by Atlantians. This new enterprise, coming as it does, upon the heels of the exposition movement, shows that the Atlanta spirit is still alive and active.

This paper called attention editorially a short time since to the fact that this city and in fact the entire south, sent away millions of dollars yearly to pay insurance premiums, and suggested that southern companies should be organized and retain a large amount of this money at home. Acting upon the suggestion, several of the leading capitalists and business men conceived the idea of organizing the Fidelity Life and Accident Insurance Company. The organizers have met with gratifying success in their call for subscribers to this stock, and, as before mentioned, the company will soon be ready for business.

The classes of insurance to be written will be life accident, security, employers' liability, steam boiler and elevator insurance. A similar organization with headquarters in the city and a general agency for the southern states at Atlanta, wrote last year in their southern territory $25,979.51 in premiums with losses of only $6,175.91, showing a gross profit of $19,803.60. These figures are authentic and go to prove that such a company, carefully managed, will prove financially a great success.

Books of subscription are still open at the company's office, No. 22 Inman building. Messrs. Hines & Felder and the State Savings bank. To capitalists this stock offers a safe and lucrative investment. To business men and others on salaries arrangements have been made so that they can pay monthly on any stock they may subscribe to.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION.

It Will Meet in This City the 26th of This Month. The Christian Endeavor convention will meet in this city on next Thursday.

It will be an interesting assembly and a large amount of important business will be transacted. The convention will be held at the First Christian church.

Dr. C. P. Williamson, the pastor of the church, who is the chairman of the convention, it goes without saying that every member of the league will leave Atlanta with pleasant recollections of the Commercial Club and its enterprising president.

Among those who will make addresses during the convention are Rev. F. W. McAuley, of the Ohio State Union; Rev. W. B. Jennings, of Macon, Ga.; Rev. M. A. Matson, of Dallas, Texas; and Rev. Wallace Sharp, of Augusta, Ga.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITOL.

Commissioner Bradwell has completed the work of sending to the school authorities of the different counties in the state the first of the new curriculum for the teachers. Every county has been settled with except three or four, where there was some irregularity in the papers, which were returned for technical correction. Yesterday afternoon Commissioner Bradwell left for Harris county, where he has to make an address on school matters at Hamilton.

Governor Northen yesterday issued his proclamation offering two rewards. On the 5th of March in Hunter county the smokeshow of J. H. Rogers was destroyed and his contents all carried off by some unknown person or persons. The governor offers $50 for the arrest with proof to convict of the burglar.

On the 10th of March in Houston county, Lucius Brown was killed by Houston Gaines. Gaines has escaped and the governor offers a reward of $100 for his arrest and delivery to the sheriff of Houston county.

The commissions of the captain and lieutenants of the Macon Volunteers were issued yesterday. The three officers are Captain J. H. Rogers, Second Lieutenant Sam B. Stevens and Second Lieutenant Sam B. Hunter.

THE CONSTITUTION; ATLANTA, GA., TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1894.

AT THE KIMBALL.

The Press Club Banquet Takes Place on May 1st.

IT WILL BE SIMPLY A SUPERB AFFAIR

The Venable Bros' Barbecue Is Going to Be Great—Manager Scott's Generous Proffer.

It has been decided that the banquet to be given by the Press Club of Atlanta to the delegates of the International League of Press Clubs shall be spread at the Kimball house.

The very statement that the banquet will be at the Kimball means that it will be an affair nonpareil.

The management of the Kimball house, with Mr. Hugh Porter at the head, realize what it means to have the convention of the International League of Press Clubs in Atlanta. The menu, which has already been prepared, will surpass in elegance anything ever seen at a banquet and all the appointments will be superb.

The decorations will be on a scale larger than ever before attempted by a banquet and the entire matter will be one indicative of what can be done by Atlanta's great hotel. Mr. Porter, who will have direct and personal charge of the banquet, is heart and soul for the best that can be procured.

He intends to give a banquet on that day to the honored visitors that no other Atlanta be excelled. Speaking of the banquet, he said:

"I have as much pride in the banquet as the newspaper men themselves and the Kimball will show what can be done in the way of fine service. We shall have everything arranged to perfection. Nothing shall be wanting."

And that's the way it will be! Banquet, music, and flowers to superabundance and overflow will be the programme.

The Venable Barbecue.

General Manager Thomas K. Scott, the liberal and progressive head of the Georgia railroad, has tendered a special train to the International League of Press Clubs on the occasion of the Venable barbecue at Stone Mountain, which takes place on Wednesday, the 3d of May.

The generous tender has been accepted and Mr. Scott announces that on that day a magnificent train will be at the disposal of the press league to leave at any hour that may be desired and to return in the afternoon.

About the barbecue Hon. W. H. Venable said yesterday: "We are going to make it the most unique barbecue ever spread in the southern states. We esteem it a privilege to entertain the members of the International Press Clubs and we want to show them how a southern barbecue is conducted. We have left nothing undone to make it complete in every respect. General Manager Scott of the Georgia railroad, with his accustomed enterprise, has already given notice that he will take charge of the party from Atlanta and will put a special train at its disposal from the time it leaves here until it gets back that afternoon. It is a privilege to have the press depend upon it that the barbecue will be the finest ever seen in this section."

Other Arrangements.

Ex-Governor R. B. Bullock, president of the Commercial Club, has already been ready to take preliminary steps for the informal lunch to be served in the rooms of the Commercial Club jointly by the club and the exposition. The Georgia States and International exposition. This will take place on Tuesday, May 1st. The sessions of the league will be held in the rooms of the Commercial Club. The kindness of President Woodson, and the first session will last from 10 until 1 o'clock on Tuesday. At 1 o'clock the members will adjourn upstairs to the excellent hospitality of the Commercial Club and the exposition directors. The lunch will be served in the large billiard hall, and Governor Bullock will take personal charge of its preparation.

"We are going to give them something nice," said he. "Just as the Commercial Club always does. The members of the league will be thrown open to the Commercial Club open to the members of the league while they are here. The ladies' parlor will be put at the disposal of the ladies and a special maid will be kept there during the session of the convention to wait upon the lady attendants at the convention. The club parlors will be thrown open to the members of the league, and we propose to do everything in our power to contribute to the pleasure of our guests while they are in the city."

IN JONESBORO THIS AFTERNOON.

General Evans Will Speak in Clayton County at Five O'clock. In the city yesterday, answering his very heavy mail, consulting with his friends and resting from the hard licks he has been putting in for the last two weeks in different parts of the state. He reports his campaign in fine order, and growing in strength every day.

"I will leave tomorrow afternoon for Jonesboro," said the general, "where I will make a speech at 5 o'clock at the courthouse. I had not intended to stop at Jonesboro at this time, but received a number of urgent requests from my friends that county to stop over on my way to south Georgia. I found the railroad schedule so admirably adapted to a short stop there that I have decided to make a speech there tomorrow afternoon. I leave Atlanta at 4 o'clock and have an engagement to speak in Swainsboro, in Emanuel county, on Wednesday, and in Louisville, in Jefferson county, on Thursday. It is thus right in my way to stop at Jonesboro for a few hours, give them a talk, shake hands with my friends, and take the night train for the south. Of course it will be an impromptu affair, but I have no doubt I will have a good crowd, as my friends have taken hold of the matter in earnest in the short time given them."

General Evans is looking finely, and the excitement and fatigue of the campaign seems to be doing him good. He expects to do some hard work in south Georgia this week. He speaks in Carrollton next Monday and it is said that arrangements have been made for a big crowd there.

CUT HIM TO PIECES.

Henry Dallas, the Carver, Arrested by Officer Harris Yesterday. Four weeks ago Henry Dallas cut Jones Walker in a manner that was thought to be fatal. No less than twenty bat wounds were inflicted, and Walker was sent to the Grady hospital, where he remained several days, not expected to live. He has now recovered, however.

At the time of the difficulty Dallas escaped, but he was arrested by Patrolman Harris yesterday, and is now locked up at police headquarters.

OUR BRAVE LION.

It Was Taken from the Depot Yesterday Afternoon.

NOW FOR THE UNVEILING CEREMONY

The Cemetery Is Not as Beautiful as Usual, on Account of the Cold Snap. It Will Be a Memorable Day.

The lion of Atlanta, modeled after the famous lion of Lucerne, has reached the city.

Late yesterday afternoon it was taken from the depot of the Western and Atlantic railroad and surrounded by the gathering darkness, began its slow trip to Oakland cemetery.

The ponderous weight of the massive animal is such that considerable labor will have to be employed in getting it to its place of destination; after which it will be no easy work to place it in position.

The weight of the lion is something in the neighborhood of 20,000 pounds. It was wrought of a solid piece of Georgia marble, and is one of the finest specimens of art ever unveiled in this section of the country.

At Oakland. A visit to Oakland cemetery yesterday afternoon revealed a very sad picture in the devastation wrought by the cold weather several days ago.

In every direction the cemetery has been converted into a scene of late harvest, as the cold weather has killed the flowers and the grass. Usually, at this season of the year, the cemetery is a scene of beauty, and the contrast is indeed a painful one.

Here and there a tall cedar rises out of the mass of blighted foliage and seems to offer a melancholy salutation to a weary traveler on his ill or in a distant portion of the cemetery.

Perhaps, in a few days, the greenery will begin to appear and enough of the beauty of April's customary early will be on hand to make the day picturesque and charming, in spite of adversity.

In Memoriam.

The monument to the unknown dead will be erected in that portion of the cemetery set apart to the Confederate soldiers.

In this restoration of the number of unknown graves are included. Each grave is marked by a slab, and where the name of the gallant soldier is not recorded, the simple inscription "Unknown" bears testimony to that fact.

The area set apart to the Confederate soldiers is indicated by a handsome arch, with the letters "In Memoriam" engraved upon it.

Not far from this point the monument will be erected.

Colonel Milledge went out to the cemetery yesterday afternoon for the purpose of inspecting the site. The work of putting up the monument will begin today.

In the Procession. The procession, made up of the visiting military organizations, in addition to the local troops, will be the largest ever seen in this city.

Colonel John S. Candler has received letters from all parts of the state, in which the information is brought that a number of companies will be in line. With the coming of the Fifth regiment, this feature of the program will be impressive and interesting.

All of the local brotherhoods will be in their call for members to the procession. In their call for members to the procession. In their call for members to the procession.

The police battalion will be out in full force to maintain order. It will be a brilliant display in honor of the unknown dead who gave their lives to the Confederacy.

The Signal for the Unveiling of the Lion of Atlanta.

The signal for the unveiling of the lion of Atlanta, the monument to the unknown Confederate dead, will be given by the president of the Ladies' Memorial Association, Mrs. Milledge, the president of the ladies' memorial association, Mrs. Milledge, the president of the ladies' memorial association, Mrs. Milledge.

THE VETERANS MEET

General C. A. Evans Re-Elected President of the Association.

THIRTY DELEGATES TO BIRMINGHAM

Full Report of the Meeting Last Night They Planned a Memorial Celebration for the 20th.

The regular annual election of officers for the Fulton County Confederate Veterans' Association caused the monthly meeting to be very largely attended and gave unusual interest to the proceedings last night.

General C. A. Evans, who is president of the association, called the meeting to order.

There was no delay and the veterans took up the business before them in a hurry.

On motion of Dr. C. S. D'Alvigny, by unanimous and rising vote, the association requested the Gate City Guard to act as their special guard on Memorial Day.

The report of the treasurer showed the receipts of the year to be $2,319.97; disbursements, $946.37; balance, $2,326.60.

The report of the visiting committee as to any Confederate veteran needing relief to report the case to the county commission, according to the act passed by the last general assembly.

The visiting committee, Major J. F. Edwards, secretary, was accepted with an expression of gratitude for the faithful discharge of duty in such office.

Election of Officers. The election of officers came up next as the chief business of the session. All officers were re-elected with the exception of the secretary, who had resigned.

The other officers are as follows: Frank C. Ryan, vice president; James Fox, treasurer; Rev. T. F. Cleveland, chaplain; R. L. Rodgers, historian, and Dr. K. A. Divine, surgeon.

In the place of Major Edwards, secretary resigned, Major W. S. Windy was chosen secretary unanimously.

The executive committee was unanimously re-elected as follows: Thomas, R. L. Calhoun, G. H. Hynds, H. F. Starke, P. E. Black.

The relief committee was re-elected, as follows: N. S. Culppepper, C. A. Mokes, W. F. Fox, C. K. Jackson, C. A. Mokes, J. A. Merson.

The visiting committee is composed of the following: R. M. Clayton, John Alledge, L. H. Landrum, Dr. T. H. Kenan and W. P. Milledge.

Following are the members of the hall committee: A. Fox, R. L. Rodgers, Frank Anderson, W. L. Durham, George A. Webster.

For Uniform Pension Laws.

Colonel A. West introduced the following resolution, which was adopted: "For the purpose of securing the enactment of uniform and equitable laws on the subject of pensions granted by the Confederate states, be it

Resolved, by the Fulton County Confederate Veterans' Association, That the delegates sent by this association to the reunion at Birmingham, Alabama, be and they are hereby authorized and instructed to present and endeavor to secure the passage of a resolution by the delegates from each state to present to the subject of making more uniform and equitable pension laws in the Confederate states, be it

MELODRAMA AT THE GRAND.

A great big production of a good melodrama was the attraction at the Grand last night. "The Power of the Press" was the play, and it was given with excellent surroundings, the scenic effects throughout being on an elaborate scale.

Royal Baking Powder

attract great audiences night after night when one has seen it played as the A. M. Palmer Company present it. It needs no scenery or spectacular effects when such actors as J. H. Stoddard, Wilton Lackaye, Madeline Bouton or Mrs. D. P. Bowers were upon the stage. It needed no stretch of imagination or recalling of some bitter experience of life, to justly appreciate the anguish of thought brought to the heart of the bent and aged minister. The audience seemed to live with him, feel with him—in fact so true to life was the acting of this splendid organization that the spectator seemed to arouse with a start and come back to this world of ours, to find it was only "a play."

AN ATLANTA BOY'S SUCCESS.

Mr. Edward J. Renick, of Georgia, Receives Promotion. Eight years ago Mr. Edward J. Renick was practicing law in the office of Judge William T. Newman, of Atlanta. Today, he is chief clerk in the state department at Washington. At the time he announced the promotion with which Mr. Renick has been honored, tell a story of the Atlanta young man which reflects great credit upon his record.

Mr. Renick was born in Baltimore thirty-eight years ago. After his graduation from the law department of the University of Virginia, he came to Atlanta, and, in 1881 to 1888 was associated in the legal profession with Judge W. T. Newman.

While Mr. Renick was at Atlanta, he was very generally recognized by the members of the Atlanta bar as a man in whom there to be found all the elements for a fine professional future, and he was considered on all sides a man of great promise.

Turning of the law, however, he stood his civil service examination; and, during Mr. Cleveland's first term in office, was appointed to a clerkship in some of the departments at Washington at a salary of $100 a month.

Since that time, however, he has steadily gone forward in his work, and has received the appointment of chief clerk in the department of state.

Mr. Renick is remembered well and favorably by his friends in Atlanta, all of whom were rejoiced to hear of his promotion.

GAS AND SUGAR

Were the Features in Point of Activity and Gain Yesterday.

PROVISIONS IN CHICAGO ADVANCED

Wheat Up 3-8 to 1-2 Cent-Heavy Receipts of Cotton at the Ports, Cause a Slight Decline.

NEW YORK, April 16.—There were but two stocks that figures to any extent in the stock market today, namely, American Sugar and Chicago Gas. Sugar held the attention of operators in the first half of the day, but subsequently it was supplanted by Chicago Gas, which completely relieved the first named.

In the early trading Sugar rose 2 1/2 to 3 1/2, and the preferred moved up 1 1/2 to 3 1/2, while the other prominent issues advanced to 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 per cent, or on an unlimited trading. Chicago Gas was an exception, selling up 1 1/2 to 1 3/4. After midday Chicago Gas forged to the front and under heavy purchases rose from 6 1/2 to 7 1/2. The improvement in Sugar was again due to Washington reports that the company will receive the protection it asks, and the rise in Chicago Gas was the result of Chicago rumors that the attorney general had decided the quo warranto case in favor of the company. It is perhaps needless to add that neither of these rumors could be confirmed. The transactions in Sugar were 46,000, and in Chicago Gas $3,100 shares in a grand total of 220,518 shares. So far as the railway is concerned, it is expected that the tendency was downward and that the pyrotechnics in the Industrials were accepted as meaning that somebody was trying to make a market. At any rate, the market was weaker in the last hour of business than for some days past, although the pressure to sell was not pronounced. Chicago Gas was the only stock to show a gain. Compared with Saturday's final, the railway list shows losses of 3/4 to 1 per cent. Chicago Gas, however, gained 2 1/2 per cent. Railway and miscellaneous bonds were strong.

Sales—Listed stocks, 162,000 shares; unlisted, 58,000.

ATLANTA'S BRIDGES

Consumed Most of the General Council's Time Yesterday.

THE SESSION WAS A VERY QUIET ONE

Attempts to Start Work on the Alabama Street Bridge Were Made Again.

The Crematory Matter.

Atlanta's bridges took up the greater part of the session of the general council yesterday afternoon.

A resolution based upon the one Mr. Camp, of the first ward, introduced at the last meeting of the general council, was presented by the bridge committee. That resolution called for the appointment of Mr. W. A. Osborn and Mr. Forrest Adair as assessors on the part of the city to act with assessors to be appointed by the property owners to ascertain the damages to the land used in the opening of Alabama street. The resolution was adopted.

The bridge committee presented a resolution authorizing the payment of $900 to Mr. Grant Wilkins, as wages for the extra inspection caused by the delay of the contractors in constructing the Forsyth street bridge. The resolution provided that the money should come out of the money due the contractors in masonry and steel for work on the bridge, and was adopted.

Then the same committee presented a resolution requesting the finance committee to appropriate $20,000 to be expended in 1894 in the necessary repairs and masonry for that part of the extension of West Alabama street next to Rhodes.

But it was the report of the bridge committee that the city for $250 for plans for the extension of Alabama street which caused the consumption of so much time. The same claim has been before the council several times before, and each time it has been sent back to the committee on bridges. The matter came up upon the report of a majority of the committee and that report authorized the payment of the $250 which Mr. McDaniel is claiming. Mr. Harralson, chairman of the bridge committee, in submitting the report stated that the committee considered that the city owed Mr. McDaniel the money, and for that reason favored paying it. He moved that the rules be suspended so that Mr. McDaniel's attorney, might be heard in the matter.

"I am," said Mr. Stockell, "as a rule opposed to suspending the rules, but in this case I am not. The system of our government provides that these matters shall be considered before the committee, and there is where the work of hanging the bridge should be carried out. I will take occasion to say, however, that I am of the opinion that the contract between Mr. McDaniel and the city is as warrent as in saying that the city ought to pay Mr. McDaniel that money. The terms of the contract are in accordance with what I have said, if I understand it."

The council refused to suspend the rules and then Mr. Harralson, chairman of the committee, presented the original resolution and the report subsequently passed by the council, which were read. He at the same time urged the adoption of the report of the committee, authorizing the payment of the $250 to Mr. McDaniel.

"I don't see any use," said Mr. Beattie, "wasting any more time on this matter. We have paid Mr. McDaniel $250, and the city engineer says the plans are not satisfactory. By the terms of the plan under which he accepted the first payment it is stated that the plans must meet with the approval of the committee on bridges and the city engineer. These plans do not do that. Then, besides that, I can't see any use spending money for nothing. In my opinion it will be a long time before that bridge is built if it is ever built. The people over there are divided about it themselves, and no plan we can formulate will please them. Some of them want the bridge to go to Hunter street, and others want it to go to Rhodes street, and yet others to Mitchell street. For my part I can't see that we can do any good by spending another dollar."

Mr. Harralson spoke against the adoption of the report of the committee, and in doing so said that he thought the terms of the contract were plain enough for any one. The rules were then suspended and Mr. Jenkins, attorney for Mr. McDaniel, addressed the council and asked that they adopt the report of the committee. Mr. Jenkins went over the case from its inception, as he construed it to the report of the committee, then hanging before the council.

Mr. Hirsch, a member of the committee and the member who signed the minority report, declared that the council should not adopt the majority report.

Mr. Dimmock spoke in favor of the majority report, while Mr. Peters was against it.

On the adoption of the report the ayes and nays were ordered and resulted:

Ayes—Camp, Welch of the second, Dimmock and Nelms—4.

The other members of the council voted the other way, the full membership being present except Mr. Martin.

The Crematory Will Have More Time.

The joint committee on the location of the crematory submitted two reports. The majority report was signed by Dr. Alexander, president of the board of health, and Mr. Camp, of the sanitary committee, while the minority report bore the names of the other members of the board of health and the balance of the sanitary committee. In submitting the two reports Mr. Camp, chairman of the committee, stated that he desired the rules suspended so that Dr. Alexander could be heard.

Dr. Alexander said that he signed the minority report placing cremation in the point the special committee had selected because he thought it the least objectionable place that the council could select. Dr. Alexander declared that cremation was the only means by which Atlanta or any other city could hope to get rid of its dead and its garbage. His talk was full of good argument and made many friends for the crematory among those who heard him.

Mr. Beattie wanted the minority report, which recommended cremation, to run for the land near Oakdale cemetery, adopted and upon motion the majority report was adopted.

The same joint committee was then given further time in which to secure a location for the crematory.

Portraits of the Ex-Mayors.

Mayor Goodwin returned to the general council the resolution introduced by Mr. Stockell at the last meeting of the general council requesting all of Atlanta's ex-mayors to have their portraits painted by the council chamber and designating Mr. Guerry as the artist to do the work. In returning the paper Mayor Goodwin stated that he approved the paper except that one feature, and that he would suggest that the feature be changed to designating Mr. Guerry as the artist to be eliminated.

Mr. Boyd moved to strike that section from the original resolution and Mr. Nelms seconded the motion. The motion was adopted.

Paid Him for Lost Time.

The relief committee presented a report on the petition of W. J. Stoll, the man who asked for pay during the time he was confined at home and his house was guarded because it was thought that there was smallpox in his family. The report favored paying Mr. Stoll $5 in making the report.

Mr. Dimmock, chairman of the committee, stated that two physicians had examined the case and pronounced it smallpox, and a third, Dr. Hays, who was considered an expert, had said that it was chicken pox. Under the report of the physicians a guard was placed around his house and he was unable to leave for several days when it was really known that the case was chicken pox and not smallpox.

Mr. Campbell objected to the report of the committee, saying that during the time Stoll was confined to his home he was supplied with provisions by the city and that when his family was allowed to move he was given transportation by the city to leave town.

Mr. Nelms spoke for the report of the committee, and so did Mr. Peters.

Mr. Beattie spoke against the report of the committee and was supported in all he said by Mr. Welch, of the second ward. The report of the committee was adopted by aye vote, the yeas being Mr. Peters, Dodge, Harman and Nelms—7. The other members voted against the adoption of the report.

The Artesian Well.

The committee having in hand the resolution of Mr. Dimmock to establish a public comfort department at the artesian well made an adverse report and the report was adopted.

Stockell presented a resolution then appropriating $2,000 in building a fire cistern at the well. In presenting the resolution Mr. Stockell asserted that the well would do the fire department more good than it would do the city in any other way. The resolution was adopted.

The Smith Street Paving.

Mr. Harman, chairman of the committee on electric and other railroads submitted a report on the long standing trouble about the paving of Smith street. The committee, port, declared that the street railroad company should pay the property owners 20 cents per foot for the blacking, and that if the matter was not settled within thirty days execution should be issued by the city marshal.

The Hebrew Burial Ground.

The officers of the Hebrew Benevolent Society sent in a paper stating that on the ground the association had bought from the Ladies' Memorial Association were found several bodies to be referred to the cemetery. The Hebrew Benevolent Association asked permission to remove these bodies to some other portion of the cemetery and the petition was referred to the cemetery committee.

Will Get the Walks.

The resolution of Mr. Dodge asking for the expenditure of $2,000 in building drive ways in Oakland cemetery was given a favorable report by the committee and was adopted.

He Wants More Water.

Mr. Camp presented a resolution asking for the expenditure of $2,000 in the water mains on Larkin, Stone, and other streets in the first ward, these mains having been laid out long ago.

"We want," said Mr. Camp, "those mains and we must have them. We have lost many houses out there because the water could not get the water. The water is main, and we have the money to lay the mains, and we represent that ward, I must ask this council to order this work done."

The resolution was passed.

Don't Want Any Money.

Mr. Howell presented an ordinance prohibiting any officer of the city from lending any money in his department money and charging him interest for it. The ordinance was at Mr. Howell's request, referred to the ordinance committee.

He Wants Them to Come.

Mr. Stockell presented a resolution extending an invitation to the grand lodge of Knights of Pythias to hold the grand convocation of 1894 in Atlanta. The resolution was adopted and the clerk of the council was instructed to send the grand lodge of the order a copy of the resolutions.

The fire department committee recommended building permits to B. F. McDuffie, "Teacher," Mrs. Kate Steiner, corner Cooper and Whittlesey to A. L. Henderson, No. 3 Butler street; to Mrs. Rhoda Layden at 108 Peachtree; to J. C. Greenfield, at 29 and 31 South Forsyth street; to James E. Hickey, 27 West Alabama; to Peter Lynch, 81 East Mitchell.

More Sewers.

An ordinance to construct a sewer along and in Lyons avenue from Jackson street to Hilliard street and along and Golden avenue from Lyons avenue to an alley at an estimated cost of $800, was read the second time and passed.

An ordinance constructing a sewer from Ashby street along and in Pearl street to Hammond street; also from Park street along and in Lee street to West End avenue at an estimated cost of $2,000.

An ordinance constructing a sewer from Whittaker street through private property to near Wells street at an estimated cost of $1,750.

An ordinance constructing a sewer from Washington street along and in Clarke and Crew streets to Rawson at an estimated cost of $1,750.

Some Petitions.

The following petitions were presented and referred to the appropriate committees: Of citizens to widen Marietta street.

Of Mr. M. Garner to buy a strip of land, of 100 feet wide, on the corner of O. J. O. Ross and others to have Dover street widened.

Of L. C. Gentile for a retail beer license on West Mitchell street.

Of citizens for an electric light on Lake avenue and General Gordon street.

Of George W. Herndon, an old confederate for a shooting gallery license.

Of Lucy McMillan, colored, for lunch license free, near corner of Marietta and Mitchell streets.

Of Mrs. M. H. Allen for damages caused by grading Borne street.

Of W. E. Lamb & Co., for a retail beer license at corner Edgewood avenue and West Street.

Of E. E. Pfeiffer, for a retail beer license at 229 Marietta street.

Of Mrs. V. V. Persons for a deed to west corner of lot 1, block 374, Oakland cemetery.

Of James Tiller for a transfer of the retail liquor license of Tiller & Butts at 97 Peters street.

Of J. B. Connelly and others, for a change of drainage on Hunter street, between Hill and Moore.

Of citizens on East Harris, protesting against paving with Belgian blocks that street.

ATLANTA MEN IN IT.

A Big Railroad Ticket Robbery Came to Light Yesterday.

ATLANTA MEN MANIPULATE IT

A Detective from Norfolk, Va., Spent Several Days Here Last Week, Looking into the Affair.

An alert-looking fellow of large form and shrewd expression of countenance might have been seen around police headquarters at almost any time during the past four days. At various times he took short excursions out into the city, always accompanied by one of Captain Wright's men. These excursions he might be seen peeping into billiard rooms, saloons, and places of public resorts. Yesterday he packed up his little brown valise and left the city.

The reticent stranger was Detective Pitt, of Norfolk, Va., and his business in Atlanta was to unearth one of the biggest and boldest thefts of recent times. Several Atlantians of bad reputation are mixed up in the affair and the Hawkshaw from Norfolk was here to capture the entire shoot-out and to get out of the city and out of the way of the city and out of the way of the city. Consequently, the officer had to return, his mission unfulfilled.

The thieves involved in the big steal on which the Norfolk detective was at work are not common thieves. They operate on large lines and in ways different from the ordinary criminal of the city. The man involved in the affair are said to be prominent in Atlanta.

The Seaboard Air-Line seems to have been largely injured, and the tickets stolen were to points on various roads in many parts of the country. The tickets were stolen from some of the large offices of the road and were brought to Atlanta for circulation.

All the tickets were very valuable. They were issued by the Seaboard Air-Line and many of them were a yard in length, having coupons leading over all the roads connecting with the Seaboard to points as far west as San Francisco, while other tickets were to points as far east as New York.

The scheme came to light in Atlanta about six weeks ago when the fraudulent manipulators plotted to dispose of thirty of the tickets to western points by selling them to a party from Norfolk, Virginia, for California. The total cost of these tickets figured up quite a large sum. At the time those who heard of the frauds, they believed that the tickets were forged and had been sold to the party from Norfolk in Atlanta. Nothing definite could be learned here as to the source of the tickets or about the parties handling them.

An investigation of the scheme was started, but on account of the cleverness of the thieves, details were exceedingly meager. The investigation was finally given up and nothing more was heard of it outside the city. The tickets were not yet been able to discover the exact number of tickets stolen outside the city.

It is thought that the Atlanta men suspected of handling the tickets will be located and in which case they will be promptly arrested.

NEXT MONTH

The Annual Meeting of the Young Men's Library Will Be Held.

NEW OFFICERS TO BE ELECTED

And New Directors on the Board—The Remarkable Growth of the Association in the Past.

The annual meeting of the Young Men's Library Association, for 1894, will be held in the parlors of the association on the second Tuesday evening of next month.
 The reports of the various officers of the year will be submitted. These will include the reports of the president and treasurer, and also of the librarian, Miss Annie Wallace, and the growth of the association during the year, will be clearly indicated.
 It has been a matter of very general remark, among the friends of the library, that since the removal of the association into its new quarters, Marietta street, a decided change has taken place and one which has added very much to its prosperity.
 The parlors of the association have become a favorite resort for the best people of the city, the membership has almost doubled, while the circulation of books during the past six months has surpassed that of any corresponding number of months in the history of the association.

Officers to Be Elected.

In addition to the annual reports which will be read at this meeting, officers for the ensuing year will be nominated.
 The present officers are Mr. Charles A. Reed, president; Mr. Joseph Hirsch, vice president; Mr. Eugene M. Mitchell, secretary, and Mr. G. R. DeSaussure, treasurer.
 It is probable that this same ticket will be re-elected.

The directors who pass out of office are Messrs. E. C. Kuntz, C. F. Rice, C. I. Brannan and Thad E. Horton.
 Those who go in May, 1895 are Messrs. W. M. Slaton, G. L. Norman, F. M. Scott and A. A. Meyer; in May, 1896, Messrs. L. L. Knight, Howard Van Epps, J. R. Nutting and Howard Van Epps.

On the Tuesday immediately succeeding the annual meeting the regular election for the year will be held.

The following members of the library have been appointed as the managers of the election: Messrs. Randall Weems, Gordon F. Mitchell and M. H. Flynn.

The growth and prosperity of the association, in its new home, will be gratifying to the friends of the library throughout the city. A cordial invitation is extended to the public generally to visit the library building.

NOW IN COURT.

Some of the Chickamauga Land Owners suing for More Money.

The case of the United States against Samuel Hall, proceedings to condemn land, has been before the federal court for the past two or three days, and bids fair to occupy several days more of the time of the court. On the 10th of August, 1886, congress passed a bill, entitled "An act to establish a national military park at the battlefield of Chickamauga." Later there was also passed a bill making an appropriation for the establishment of the military park, and appointing J. B. Hall, Joseph A. and S. H. Wheeler appraisers of the land out of which the park was proposed to be made. One hundred and sixty acres of land were selected for which the appraisers said the government should pay $1,500. Samuel Hall, and other plaintiffs in the case, were unwilling to accede to the terms of appraisal, stating that a sufficient value had not been placed upon their land and engaged Messrs. Glenn & Maddox, of Atlanta, to enter suit in the circuit court of the United States.

A SPLENDID AGENCY.

Mr. W. T. Crenshaw Secures the Imperial Insurance Company.

I am pleased to announce to the insurance public in Atlanta that I have just secured the agency of the Imperial Insurance Company, of London, England, one of the oldest, strongest, largest and best of all the English fire insurance companies.

and therefore, better able than ever to take good care of the interests of my friends and patrons, and to all such whose patronage my office is favored, I guarantee prompt, straightforward, business-like attention.

The agency of the Imperial and of the other well known and established companies, the Phoenix, of Brooklyn, and the London Assurance, completes my fire insurance agency and furnishes me with almost perfect facilities for handling satisfactorily all lines with which I may be favored, and your patronage is respectfully solicited.

After more than ten years' experience with fire insurance, I am fully convinced that I can safely promise correct and prompt attention to all business entrusted to my care. Very truly,

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs. Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.
